2000 SUMMER OPERATIONS

Seward Air Force Recreation Camp is located 130 miles south of Anchorage on the beautiful Kenai Peninsula. It is adjacent to Resurrection Bay just inside the city limits of Seward, Alaska at milepost 2.1 on the Seward Highway. In route, you'll travel the nationally renowned Seward Highway, famous for its scenic beauty along Turnagain Arm. Watch for moose, Dall sheep, Beluga whales, bald eagles, black bear and the many glaciers tucked in and around the Chugach Mountains. The camp is open from 19 May to 5 September. All guests must check in at the front desk in the main lodge upon arrival.

AUTHORIZED PATRONS

Active duty military, retirees, National Guard, reserves, DoD/NAF civilians, their families and guests.
